

Dental care

- Dental disease is the most common disease that we see in cats. It is a serious condition that can affect your cat's appetite, heart, liver and kidney functions.
- Your cat can be trained to allow brushing of his/her teeth. If this is not possible then there are proven dental therapies and oral sealants that can be implemented.
- If proper at home dental care is given then dental cleanings would start at 3 years old with a dental exam and full mouth dental radiographs.
- All cats will receive medication to calm them and prevent any anxiety before anesthesia is started for the dental cleaning.
- An IV catheter and fluids are given to prevent dehydration, regulate blood pressure and heart rate.
- During surgery heart rate, respiratory rate, oxygenation level, temperature and blood pressure are monitored.
- Digital dental radiographs (x-ray) will allow the veterinarian to evaluate the entire tooth, periodontal ligament, and bone structures. Most of the tooth is below the gum line which makes it only visible with radiographs.

We are an AAHA-accredited veterinary hospital.

Accreditation by AAHA means that an animal hospital has been evaluated on approximately 900 standards of veterinary excellence.

To maintain their accreditation, hospitals undergo a rigorous review by veterinary experts every three years. Pets are our passion, and keeping them healthy is our #1 priority.

At Lebanon Animal Hospital, we strive to deliver excellent care for pets, because your pets deserve nothing less.

Learn more about AAHA accreditation and why our accreditation is important to you and your pet.

Visit aaha.org/petowner.

1613 West Main Street
Lebanon, TN 37087
615-444-4422

www.lebanonanimalhospital.com

ADULT CAT CARE

Allen W. Craig, DVM
Amanda J. Wesson, DVM
Kelley E. Brown, DVM
615-444-4422

www.lebanonanimalhospital.com

At Lebanon Animal Hospital, we strive to provide our patients with a stress free environment. Using various treats and techniques we encourage a fear free zone.

Preventative care can make a huge difference in the quality of your cat's life. Comprehensive health screening, nutrition counseling and complete dental care are some of the ways we can help your friend live a better and longer life.

Wellness examinations

Lebanon Animal Hospital recommends twice yearly examinations on all pets. During exams the veterinarian will assess your cat's eyes, ears, teeth, lungs, heart, abdomen and skin/coat condition.

The benefits of the examinations are that we are able to find and treat abnormalities and concerns before your cat develops an illness.

The most common concerns for our adult cats are heart, kidney, dental disease, diabetes, and obesity.

Diagnostic testing

- Organ function blood panels: Blood panels allow us to evaluate your pets health comprehensively and monitor changes
- FeLV/FIV SNAP Test: Recommended for new and outdoor cats yearly
- Feline Heartworms: Recommended for indoor and outdoor cats because they are spread from mosquitos, which have access to the indoors
- Fecal (stool) sample: Recommended test for intestinal parasites every 6 months

Topics of Discussion:

- Preventative blood panel evaluations
- Intestinal Parasite Prevention

Vaccinations

- Rabies
- FVRCP: Distemper and Respiratory Virus
- FeLV: Feline Leukemia Virus

Topics of Discussion:

- All cats less than 2 years old will get the FeLV vaccine
- Cats that are allowed outdoors will require the FeLV vaccination yearly

Parasite control

- Indoor cats receive Profender once yearly to treat for tapeworms, roundworms and hookworms
- Outdoor cats receive Profender every 3 months
- All cats will receive the best flea and/or tick prevention for their needs

Topics of Discussion:

- Indoor vs Outdoor
- Behavior Concerns